

SYNOPSIS: LEAGUE OF SHOOTERS

Jane is our protagonist, a sorrowful woman after she lost her boyfriend Peter. After Peter's death, Jane couldn't accept Jake, his replacement. But she must bow down to her superiors and work with him. Until she finds something fishy...

Our story begins as Jane and Peter laughs and having fun in their time together at a bar of the League of Shooters (LoS) building. At night, Peter got a notification about the next days job. It's a solo job, but Jane got a bad feeling about it because normally they go almost all the jobs together. He says "Don't worry Jane, I'll be back in couple hours. Then we could continue quality fun time." as he kisses his girlfriend.

The day following, the news of Peter's death comes a couple hours after Peter leaves. Jane is devastated. She couldn't get herself together for almost two months. When she comes back to the LoS, she sees they hired Jake, as replacement of Peter. She hated him in an instant.

Now that Jane doesn't have a partner for the jobs, LoS wants Jake as partner to her and make him her intel guy on site. Firstly, she accepts reluctantly but then she learns his skill about killing with everything and gets a little exited because she wants to learn it too. He is Jane's covert intel guy on the site from now on.

On every job, Jake is waiting on the site in a disguise and gives information to Jane with a little earpiece as she walks room to room. He even gives her some killing strategies sometimes. It is impossible to recognize him if you don't know his disguise.

Some jobs later, she overhears Jakes conversation on the phone with someone behind a wall. He is giving some secrets of the company that he learned on the jobs. Jane walks away without saying anything, but she wants to get rid of him now.

On the next job when Jake thinks that they are there for someone else, she sets up Jake into a trap for giving secrets of the company. She purposely lets him to get hurt, even injures him more. He says nothing about why he did it. When torturing him Jane recognizes Jakes tattoo and realizes its Peter. She gets shocked. Now that she realized who he is, he thinks he doesn't have choice but to tell truth and explains everything. She learns the truth and regrets the things she had done but its too late. The injuries of Peter are too heavy, and he dies in the arms of Jane. She cries her eyes out as she knows she killed her significant other. While carrying his body she swears to kill every last one of the League of Assassins executives and members. And screen fades out as Jane walks out the building.
