

JAKE THE CHAMELEON

Jake the Chameleon is our game's antagonist and replacement of Peter in the League of Shadows (LoS). After Peter's so-called death, Jake joined the LoS. On the last job Peter went, he got captured without reaching the target by targets guards. When he got captured, he learned the person he is ordered to kill is the head of League of Assassins (LoA), rival company of LoS. LoA wants to learn all the secrets in the company that Peter is affiliated with. They know everything about him and Jane, therefore he must obey them in order to protect her. Now, Jake is his new identity.

Jake is medium height and was a parkour athlete so has a strong body from those days. He met Jane in the parkour academy, and they joined the LoS together. Jake wears casual in the League after becoming Jake, black jean, plain t-shirt or lumberjack shirt and black shoes. He generally doesn't prefer colorful clothes in his daily life now because he always wears different when he is on the jobs, but he used to wear colorful with Jane when he was Peter. Under his wigs, he has curly, short, messy light brown hair. His expressionless face with green wide eyes and lips makes him unintelligible, so no one can sense what he thinks. He has a small tattoo of a Viking drinking horn on his left chest, symbolizing his first killing weapon, so that he never forgets the day he changed forever. Shaves every day, as he wears false mustaches and beards that vary according to the job. Jake can kill a target with anything, he has trained himself for it, so he doesn't need a gun, and since he doesn't carry a gun, he'll face no problem getting in somewhere.

Jake got his nickname from his mastery of disguising. His cloth range, wigs, fake beards, and colored contact lenses prevents everyone to recognize him and provide an easy success to him. It doesn't matter if he takes the last shot or not, he is always in the room unrecognizable. Even Jake is a disguise, hiding Peter. And with his skills, he is a good intel gatherer.

Before what he went through, he was entertaining and lovable but now, he has a strict and quiet personality and just talks with the Employer. The only reason he talks with the Employer is, the Employer is Jake's contact with the League of Assassins and Jake gives him the informations that he gathered about Shooters. He wants to make contact with Jane and tell her everything he went through but to protect her he can't.